Meghan sat in for Kelly

1. Cabinet reviewed and commented on the following information items:
 - a. The U.S. Department of Education announced Wednesday it will continue to waive financial aid verification rules for 2022-23. Although college access advocates view financial aid verification as burdensome, we have good software that supports and facilitates this verification. Nothing can replace the hands-on process of answering student concerns. The largest obstacle for students is overcoming delays in completing the process. We need to practice “Compliance with Compassion”.
 - b. A report released by CA FWD, SdRegional Best Practices Point the Way Toward More Inclusive Economies, captures the creation and execution of strategies that generate more high-paying and promising jobs. This creates social equity and environmental sustainability within areas that share economic connections. We are working closely with the San Gabriel Valley Economic Partnership (SGVEP) on these challenges.
 - c. An opinion article from The Hechinger Report, With college enrollment tumbling, new strategies are urgently needed, highlights the fact that U.S. College enrollments have declined by 3 million students over the past decade.
